

K Calder
& Associates

Active Shooter Awareness Training

How do you prepare for the unthinkable? From elementary schools, to malls, government and private facilities, prudent safety and emergency management professionals are reviewing their practices for responding to the threat of an “active shooter”.

This half-day workshop will provide attendees an introduction to the latest in preparing, responding and recovery from an “active shooter” incident. Participants will review the latest in best practices principles and tactics to enhance the safety of employees, customers and the general public. Attendees will participate in the review of case studies, interactive lectures and hands-on application and planning. Specific workshop objectives include:

Preparedness

- Describe the latest “active shooter” statistics and demographics
- Review the latest approaches and research in “active shooter” response
- What does being prepared mean?
- Discuss training and exercise options
- Differentiate between an “active shooter” incident and a “barricaded subject and hostage” incident

Response

- Review current police response and tactics
- Review individual responses
- Review the use of lockdown, shelter-in-place, evacuate and fight back
- Discuss the role and responsibilities for on-site security and management
- Use of physical security during incidents
- Evacuation and shelter-in-place strategies

Recovery

- Discuss short- and long-term incident recovery strategies
- Site and operational security
- Police liaison
- Victim, family and co-worker assistance
- Organizational roles and responsibilities
- Communication strategies
- Business continuity planning

Contact us: kcalder@kcalderassociates.com